MCLB, the second-largest employer in the Barstow area, was established as the Marine Corps Depot of Supplies at its present location on Dec. 28, 1942, when the Navy turned it over to the Marine Corps as a storage site for supplies and equipment needed for Fleet Marine Forces (FMF) in the Pacific theater during World War II.

By the end of World War II, the base had outgrown its facilities. As a result, 2,000 acres of land, approximately 7 miles east of the Nebo side of the base, were annexed from the Army in October 1946. In 1954, the commanding general, Marine Corps Depot of Supplies, moved his flag from San Francisco to Barstow. Since then, the base has grown in stature, strength, and size.

In March 1961, the importance of MCLB Barstow increased dramatically with the establishment of the Depot Maintenance Activity. In November 1978, the base was redesignated to its present title of Marine Corps Logistics Base to emphasize its broad logistics support mission. In the early 1980s, MCLB Albany and Headquarters Marine Corps worked aggressively to integrate logistics support for the FMF and eliminate duplications. As a result, all operational logistics functions moved to Albany and in January 1990, the commanding general, MCLB Albany, was redesignated commander Marine Corps Logistics Bases. In 2003, the Marine Requirements Oversight Council re-evaluated how the Corps' logistics operations can best support its operating forces. Council members determined refining the acquisition and how the total life cycle management of weapons systems and equipment would make an immediate improvement in the excellence in warfighting campaign. The result: Marine Corps Logistics Bases merged with the Marine Corps Materiel Command to become the Marine Corps Logistics Command (LOGCOM).

Headquartered in Albany, Georgia, LOGCOM was composed of five major components: MCLB Albany; MCLB Barstow; Blount Island Command Jacksonville, Florida; Maintenance Center Albany; and Maintenance Center Barstow.

In general, MCLB Albany furnishes supplies for Marine Corps forces east of the Mississippi and to forces that are part of the Atlantic Fleet. MCLB Barstow supports Marine forces west of the Mississippi, the Far East and Asia, while Blount Island Command provides logistical support for the Marine Corps’ Maritime Prepositioning Ships and the Norway Geo-Prepositioning programs.

On Oct. 1, 2005, MCLB Barstow was realigned from LOGCOM to the newly formed Marine Corps Installations West, Camp Pendleton, as a result of the regionalization of Marine Corps bases and stations. Maintenance Center Barstow and Fleet Support Division remain under LOGCOM.

MCLB Barstow is composed of three principal sites: Nebo, which encompasses 1,879 acres and functions as base headquarters and is the main facility for administration, storage, recreational activities, shopping and housing functions; the Yermo Annex, which encompasses 1,859 acres and is primarily a storage and industrial complex; and the third site, 2,438 acres, which serves as the rifle and pistol ranges.

The base is near Interstate 40, 3.5 miles east of the city of Barstow. MCLB Barstow is a vital link in the logistics complex that provides the weapons systems, equipment and special logistics essential to supporting the assigned missions of the Fleet Marine Forces. To accomplish this, Barstow is positioned in a strategic geographical location. It lies at the junction to three major highway systems of Interstate 15, Interstate 40 and Highway 58. It’s the hub of all West Coast rail traffic for the Burlington Northern/Santa Fe and the Union Pacific railroads. It’s in the immediate proximity to the Daggett Airport, and the city is within 150 miles of the two major seaports of Los Angeles and San Diego. Because of its arid desert climate, equipment can be stored outdoors with minimal maintenance required.

MARINE CORPS MOUNTED COLOR GUARD

The Marine Corps Mounted Color Guard was formed aboard MCLB Barstow in 1967 and designated an official Mounted Color Guard by Headquarters Marine Corps in 1968. This is the only remaining Mounted Color Guard in the Marine Corps today.

The Bureau of Land Management (BLM) honored this unit by portraying it on the first edition of the BLM’s Wild Horse trading cards. This elite military unit has performed throughout the United States, traveling as far as Washington, D.C. The Mounted Color Guard has received numerous national awards including Overall High Point Champion and Class Champion from the California National Association of Paraders from 1980 to 1985, 1989 and 1991 to 1997, and Overall Outstanding Equestrian Group from 1987 to 1989. The Mounted Color Guard no longer competes due to military regulations.

In January 1985, the Mounted Color Guard made its first appearance in the Tournament of Roses Parade. Since January 1990, the Mounted Color Guard has participated in the Tournament of Roses Parade. The unit has been given the extreme honor of being the first military unit to lead the parade in 1990, 1995, 1998, 2001 and 2002, and is now the official color guard of the Tournament of Roses Parade.

It has also participated in events such as the Fiesta Bowl, Super Bowl parades and Military Finals rodeos. Horses in the unit are wild Palomino mustangs adopted from the BLM’s Adopt a Horse and Burro Program. The mounts are gentle and trained by the Marines.

The Mounted Color Guard members are active-duty Marines who volunteer their time evenings, weekends and holidays — and perform these duties in addition to their regular duties.

This unit travels across the United States participating in parades, rodeos and other events and ceremonies. Call 760-577-7302 for more information.

INTRODUCTION
Barstow, “Gateway to the great mysterious desert,” has more to offer than meets the eye. There are surprises everywhere: volcanic cinder cones, booming sand dunes, historic and modern mines, rock formations etched with messages from former residents, vast vistas framed with mile-high mountains and small towns dotted along historic Route 66.

This is the Mojave Desert. Natural beauty, an abundance of outdoor activities, historical sights, modern shopping centers, fine dining and a variety of accommodations are all here.

Overall, Barstow is a peaceful and tranquil town where you and your family can avoid the distractions and pressures of demanding city traffic and crowds, while exploring a dusty jewel of the high desert.

HISTORY AND ORIENTATION
A railway town since its founding, the city of Barstow has a population of nearly 24,000, with a trade area encompassing more than 60,000 people (incorporating the communities of Barstow, Daggett, Fort Irwin, Hinkley, Lenwood, Newberry Springs and Yermo). In 1888, the Santa Fe Railroad arrived in town and a splendid station was built in the middle of the Mojave Desert. Named after the president of the Santa Fe, William Barstow Strong, the town soon became a service center for the gold and silver mines that surrounded the community. Before all this feverish activity in the late 1800s, the Mojave Desert had been occupied by Native American tribes who (2,000 years ago) lived beside the immense lakes that covered most of the Mojave. Today, the landscape is bone dry, and Barstow is a highway town, at the junction of Interstate 15 and...
Interstate 40, on the routes between Los Angeles, Las Vegas and Flagstaff. The railway station has been converted into restaurants and shops.

TRANSPORTATION

Air, rail, truck, highway and bus systems make Barstow a complete California transportation center. Interstates 40 and 15 and state highways 58 and 247 provide easy access by car to surrounding cities in Southern California including Los Angeles, San Diego and other popular coastal cities as well as to the neighboring states: Arizona, Nevada and Utah.

While there are no major commercial airports in Barstow, Ontario International Airport (77 miles southwest), Los Angeles International Airport (LAX) (131 miles) and Las Vegas (157 miles) all schedule passenger and freight services. Barstow-Daggett Airport and Southern California Logistics Airport (30 miles southwest) also offer these services.

The rail facilities of both Santa Fe and Union Pacific provide the utmost in rail service to the shipper. Both Amtrak and Greyhound offer passenger service to and from Los Angeles and Las Vegas.

For local transportation services, the Victor Valley Transiit Authority provides its fixed-route transit system services by bus to and in the Barstow area.

GOVERNMENT AND PUBLIC RESOURCES

After you and your family are situated, it is recommended that you familiarize yourselves with your local community government and organizations, such as the Barstow Area Chamber of Commerce & Visitors Bureau, the City of Barstow, the DMV and the Barstow field office of the Bureau of Land Management. Do not hesitate to take advantage of what these organizations and resources have to offer, as they are especially familiar with assisting and educating newcomers like you to the area.

The Barstow Area Chamber of Commerce & Visitors Bureau promotes commerce and tourism throughout the region. It is also a conduit between the community and the military population at MCLB Barstow and the National Training Center at Fort Irwin. The chamber’s member directory has information on many local services, utilities, businesses and recreational opportunities. For more information on the chamber, call 760-256-8617 or visit www.barstowchamber.com.

The City of Barstow has a council-manager form of government. The city council has five representatives, including Mayor Julie Hackbarth-McIntyre. The city council can be contacted at 760-255-5195. Other city departments include the city manager’s office, police department, fire protection district, community development department, community services department and finance department. For more information on city hall or City of Barstow services, visit www.barstowca.org.

The Barstow office of the California Department of Motor Vehicles provides vehicle registration, driver’s license and ID card services to the Barstow community at 528 E. Virginia Way. For more information, call 800-777-0133 or visit www.dmv.ca.gov.

The Bureau of Land Management is the public’s resource for information, management and assistance on the use of public land in the Mojave Desert and other public land areas. Its mission is to sustain the health, diversity and productivity of the public lands for the use and enjoyment of present and future generations. The Barstow field region covers an area from the northern boundary of Joshua Tree National Park to Fort Irwin and from the eastern boundary of San Bernardino National Forest to north of Death Valley Junction, California, as far as the California-Nevada state line. To contact the Barstow field office, call 760-252-6000. For more information on the bureau’s services, programs and recreational opportunities, visit www.blm.gov.

MEDIA

The Victorville Daily Press/Desert Dispatch serves Barstow and other surrounding communities as the main newspaper. Several radio stations and a regional TV station also provide Barstow with other specialized media. The Highway Vibe (99.7, 98.1 and 98.9 FM), The Drive (96.9 and 94.9 FM) and Highway Country (107.3 and 101.5 FM) cover more than 40,000 square miles of the Mojave Desert area. They bring travelers of interstates 15 and 40 continuous news, traffic and weather updates as well as provide hours of a variety of music favorites for travelers’ listening pleasure. Highway Radio also features The Las Vegas Connection, where Las Vegas-bound tourists can get information on current and upcoming events.

HOUSING AVAILABILITY, PRICES AND RENTALS

Rentals for one- and two-bedroom apartments and townhomes range from about $500 to $1,200 per month. Rentals for two- and three-bedroom homes range from about $550 to $1,450. Other options include more than a dozen mobile home parks and house rentals. Low-income housing is also available through the Housing Authority of the County of San Bernardino.

At AHRN.com, you’ll find the largest listing of military-friendly housing around the world, including on- and off-base housing, houses, apartments or rooms; temporary lodging; and more. This free database is updated continually by landlords and property managers, and the AHRN website also features information about BAH data, local schools, utilities, military-friendly businesses and more.

Barstow Unified has six elementary schools, two junior high schools, two high schools and an adult education school. Silver Valley has four elementary schools, one middle school, one high school and one alternative education center. Barstow also has two private schools and a community college (Barstow Community College).

The college also offers occupational programs for entry into the workforce or for advancing the skill sets of those currently in the workforce. Contract educational and training offerings are tailored to the working professional and the unique demands of local and regional businesses.

At $46 per unit, the cost of attending Barstow College is relatively inexpensive. Non-residents pay $211 per unit, in addition to the $46 per unit enrollment fee. The Barstow College campus is on Barstow Road overlooking the city, the Mojave River and the Calico Mountains. The campus is an attractive green oasis in the desert with a variety of palm, cypress, oak and olive trees that form an ideal setting for student learning. Facilities available on the campus include a large gymnasium (James R. Parks), a child care facility (Child Care America), a comfortable meeting hall (the Norman Smith Center) and a state-of-the-art fitness center.

Barstow Community College has also partnered with Park University to offer students a flexible, convenient and economical path to a bachelor’s degree. Associate degrees can transfer seamlessly to a four-year degree from Park. Park has a formal campus center on the BCC campus, allowing the two institutions to work side-by-side to help you earn a degree.

Barstow Harvey House
The original Harvey House Railroad Depot in Barstow was constructed in 1885. Known as “Casa del Desierto,” or House of the Desert, the Harvey House Railroad Depot consisted of a wood depot, restaurant and hotel that later burned in 1908. The current Harvey House was designed by Mary Colter and was constructed from 1910 to 1913. Its design speaks to Santa Fe 16th century Spanish and Southwest American Indian architecture. Today, the Barstow Harvey House is home to the Route 66 Mother Road Museum and the Western America Railroad Museum and is on the National Register of Historic Places.

The Route 66 Mother Road Museum houses pieces of a bygone era within the renovated walls of the Harvey House. The Route 66 museum features vintage automobiles and motorcycles, including a 1947 Harley-Davidson police trike, an old gas pump, model trains, historic photographs, postcards from around the area and other Route 66 memorabilia.

YERMO

The city of Yermo has a population of approximately 1,200. The Union Pacific railway runs parallel to Yermo Road, the main drag of the town. Yermo is also home to MCLB Barstow’s Yermo Annex, Calico Ghost Town and Peggy Sue’s ’50s Diner, as well as numerous annual events.

Calico Ghost Town

1881 marked the beginning of one of the largest silver strikes in California history and the birth of Calico. This authentic silver mining town, which lies in the colorful hills of the Calico Mountains just 10 minutes north of Barstow, lives on as one of the few original mining camps of the Old West. Today, you can visit this famous ghost town where silver dominated the town and the U.S. Borax Co. brought its 20-mule team to town on a regular basis.

Spend a day exploring the various mercantile stores that reflect the time of a bygone era. Some of these shops include leather works, crafts, woodworks and more. Step into the past while participating in the guided underground Maggie Mine tour, gold panning, a historic train tour and much more. After a long day of activities, your family can dine at one of the mining day theme restaurants such as Lil’s Saloon or the Old Miner’s Cafe. Extend your stay at one of the 265 campsites, which have accommodations for RVs, or in one of the six cabins or the large bunkhouse, all tucked away in a secluded canyon.

Calico is also home to several annual events. In February, Civil War Days features re-enactments of Union and Confederate Troops in the hills of Calico Mountain. For Mother’s Day, Bluegrass in the Spring brings music, cloggers, old-time games, gunfight shows and more to Calico Ghost Town. In September, Calico Days celebrates the rich history of the ghost town’s silver rush and mining past. The weekend features a triathlon, a burro race, a costume contest, a parade and more. October is the perfect month for the Calico Ghost Haunt, which includes trick-or-treating, costume contests, pumpkin carving, stage shows, haunted attractions and other Halloween events. A full list of annual events is available at the Calico website at http://cms.sbcounty.gov/parks/Parks/CalicoGhostTown.aspx. Visit the website or call 800-TO-CALICO (862-2542) for more information.

Peggy Sue’s ’50s Diner

“Eat to the beat” at Peggy Sue’s, an original ’50s roadside diner. Built in 1954, it was expanded and restored to its original charm in 1987. Shadowed by the Calico Mountains, it houses an extensive collection of movie and TV memorabilia. Dine here for breakfast, lunch or dinner. Enjoy great homemade chili and soups, a pizza parlor, a soda fountain, an ice cream parlor or old-fashioned candy — all to old-time ’50s music. Peggy Sue’s also features a five-and-dime store and a Dinosaur Park with dinosaur sculptures, cool lagoons and sparkling waterfalls surrounded by shady trees.

DAGGETT

Daggett is a small town in the Mojave Desert, about 8 miles east of Barstow on Interstate 40. Those using Route 66 easily overlook it, and yet the “Mother Road” passes right through the town. Founded in the 1860s, 15 to 20 years before the filing of Waterman’s claim, Daggett was once called Calico Junction. It was renamed in 1883 to honor John Daggett, lieutenant governor of California from 1882 to 1886. Daggett is the “parent” community of the Mojave Valley. For nearly 40 years, it was the hub of the Mojave Desert. As the outfitting point for mines in Death Valley, the Calicos, Vanderbilt and dozens of other locations, it was the recognized commercial center. Today the town is home to a modern airport, agriculture and light industry and is at the junction of two major railroad lines.

Daggett Museum

Daggett Museum moved to the historic Stone Hotel in 2017. Despite burning down twice, the original adobe and stone portion of the Stone Hotel has remained exactly as it was built in 1883. The museum consists of more than 40 cases displaying early American collectibles, railroad china, Navajo Indian code-talker artifacts from World War II, barbed wire, lapidary work and much more, including a unique model of the Solar I generating plant. For more information, visit www.daggetthistoricalsociety.org.

OUTDOORS

Safety and Precautions

Before setting foot on any outdoor adventures, visit the local ranger stations (contact the Bureau of Land Management) or other desert information resource establishments and get familiarized with the unique qualities and habits of the vast variety of plants and animals in the high desert. This information can dispel common myths and misunderstandings, help avoid dangerous situations or encounters, yet allow one to appreciate what the desert has to offer. Also, before removing or altering archeological finds, be aware of the rules set forth by the Bureau of Land Management.

Wildlife

Though not always visible, wildlife is abundant across the Mojave Desert. There are over 300 species of animals, including desert big-horn sheep, mule deer, coyotes and desert tortoises. A variety of birds live in the desert as well. Golden eagles and several species of hawks can be seen soaring on the desert thermals. Gambel’s quail, chukar and mourning doves, as well as many other small species of birds live in the canyons and washes where they are able to find water, food and vegetation for cover.

Snakes

There are several species lurking in the Mojave National Preserve and in the surrounding areas like the desert rosy boa, a cousin to the South American constrictor, which grows to be only 2 or 3 feet in length. The easy-going gopher snake grows large, up to 6 feet in length, but rarely bites. Most dangerous are the Mojave rattlesnake and the desert sidewinder, both of which are poisonous. Not to worry though, snakes and other formidable creatures typically remain in hiding far from human life during the day and only come out in the evening to hunt for rodents, insects and other small creatures.

Plants
Desert plants are especially adapted to living in this arid climate. Common plants include yucca, creosote and the Joshua tree. The spring brings a colorful and abundant array of blossoms when the winter rains have watered the desert.

Camping
Full-service hookup sites as well as rugged minimalist campsites are easily accessible from Barstow.

OFF-HIGHWAY VEHICLE AREAS
Off-highway vehicle riding is one of the major recreational activities in Southern California. Public lands available for OHV use are designated as either limited use areas or open areas. Vehicles are required to remain on designated routes of travel within all of the limited use areas. Open areas are contained within a formal OHV boundary and permit cross-country travel. Some popular areas include Stoddard Valley, Rasor, Dumont Dunes and more.

ARCHAEOLOGICAL POINTS OF INTEREST
The geological treasures waiting to be discovered throughout the Mojave desert-preserved landscape include precious minerals and stones, petrified wood, prehistoric artifacts and more. Today, a visit to Black Canyon and Opal Mountain offers an opportunity to view nearly 10,000 petroglyphs and pictographs.

Mojave National Preserve
The 1.4 million acres between interstates 5 and 40 in southeastern California were designated by Congress as a national preserve in 1994 to protect the prehistoric, historic and natural resources found in the region. Elevations range from near sea level north of Baker, California, to over 6,000 feet in the Ord Mountains south of Barstow, and the terrain ranges from mountains to sand dunes. Indian rock art includes petroglyphs more than 10,000 years old and evidence of more recent human activity, particularly mining and cattle ranching, remains as well. Visit www.nps.gov/moja for more information.

Rainbow Basin Natural Area
Fossils and minerals are contained in the rock walls, formed by millions of years of geological activity and displaying an array of colors. A driving tour is available, but keep in mind that the one-way narrow dirt road is best driven with a high-clearance or four-wheel drive vehicle. Camping is permitted for a fee at Owl Canyon Campground. Visit www.blm.gov/visit/rainbow-basin-owl-canyon-campground for more information.
