at Fairchild Air Force Base

FAIRCHILD AIR FORCE BASE is in the eastern part of Washington state in Spokane County. The base is 12 miles west of Spokane, 279 miles east of Seattle and 45 miles west of Coeur D'Alene, Idaho. The closest communities are Airway Heights, Cheney and Medical Lake.

The host unit at Fairchild AFB controls more than 6,150 acres and nearly 650 buildings.

Fairchild is home to a wide variety of units and missions. Most prominent is its air refueling mission with the 92nd Air Refueling Wing, which is the host wing, and the Washington Air National Guard's 141st ARW.

Tenant units at Fairchild AFB include the 509th Weapons Squadron; 336th Training Group; 368th Recruiting Squadron; Joint Personnel Recovery Agency; 373rd Training Squadron, Detachment 13; and Air Force Office of Special Investigations, Detachment 322.

Population

The base has more than 6,000 active-duty personnel, Air National Guard, Army National Guard members and civilian members. The base's total population exceeds 9,000 with approximately 9,000 retirees in the area, representing an annual payroll of $236 million.

Economic Impact

Fairchild AFB's total impact on the local economy in fiscal year 2015, the most recent analysis available, was approximately $420 million. It is one of the largest employers in the Spokane region and created 2,314 jobs in FY 2015.

HISTORY

Since 1942, Fairchild AFB has been a key part of our nation's defense strategy — from World War II repair depot, to Strategic Air Command bomber wing during the Cold War, to Air Mobility Command air refueling wing during Operation Enduring Freedom and other contingency operations. Today, Fairchild's aircraft and personnel are the backbone of the Air Force's tanker fleet on the West Coast.

Fairchild's location, 12 miles west of Spokane, resulted from a competition with the cities of Seattle and Everett in western Washington.

The War Department chose Spokane for several reasons: better weather conditions, its location 300 miles from the coast and the Cascade mountain range providing a natural barrier against possible Japanese attack.

As an added incentive to the War Department, many Spokane businesses and public-minded citizens donated money to purchase land for the base. At a cost of more than $125,000, these supporters bought 1,400 acres and presented the title to the War Department in January 1942. That year, the government designated $14 million to purchase more land and begin building the new Spokane Army Air Depot.

From 1942 until 1946, the base served as a repair depot for damaged aircraft returning from the Pacific theater. In the summer of 1946, the base was transferred to the Strategic Air Command and assigned to the 15th Air Force. Beginning in the summer of 1947, the 92nd and 98th bomb groups arrived. Both units flew the most advanced bomber of the day, the B-29 Superfortress. In January 1948, the base received the second of its three official names: Spokane Air Force Base.

With the outbreak of hostilities in Korea, both bomb groups deployed to Japan and Guam. After only a few months, Gen. Douglas MacArthur released the 92nd to return to the states while the 98th remained in the Far East. The 98th was then reassigned to Nebraska.

Upon its return to Fairchild, the 92nd was redesignated the 92nd Bombardment Wing (Heavy). In November 1950, the base took its current name in memory of Air Force Vice Chief of Staff Gen. Muir S. Fairchild, a native of Bellingham, Washington. The general entered service as a sergeant with the Washington National Guard in June 1916 and died while on duty at the Pentagon in March 1950. The formal dedication ceremony was held July 20, 1951, to coincide with the arrival of the wing's first B-36 Peacemaker.

In 1956, the wing began a conversion that brought the B-52 Stratofortress to Fairchild, followed by the KC-135 Stratotanker in 1958. In 1961, the 92nd became the first "aerospace" wing in the nation with the acquisition of Atlas intercontinental ballistic missiles. Given its new role and the addition of missiles, the 92nd Bomb Wing was redesignated the 92nd Strategic Aerospace Wing, though the designation lasted longer than the missiles, the missiles themselves being removed in 1965.

On March 15, 1966, the 3636th Combat Crew Training Group was established at Fairchild. In 1971, it became a wing and assumed control over all Air Force survival schools. Today, the 336th Training Group continues this mission for Air Education and Training Command.

As military operations in Vietnam escalated in the mid-1960s, the demand for air refueling increased. Fairchild tanker crews became actively involved in Operation Young Tiger, refueling combat aircraft in Southeast Asia. The wing's B-52s were not far behind, deploying to Andersen Air Force Base, Guam, for Operation Arc Light and the bombing campaign against enemy strongholds in Vietnam.

In late 1974, the Air Force announced plans to convert the 141st Fighter Interceptor Group of the Washington Air National Guard at Geiger Field to the 141st Air Refueling Wing and move it to Fairchild. Work began soon after, and by 1976, eight KC-135E aircraft transferred to the new 141st Air Refueling Wing.

Following Iraq's invasion of Kuwait in August 1990, 560 base personnel deployed to Desert Shield and Desert Storm from August 1990 to March 1991. The 43rd and 92nd air refueling squadrons flew a combined total of 4,004 hours and 721 sorties and off-loaded 22.5 million pounds of fuel to coalition aircraft.

On Sept. 1, 1991, the Air Force redesignated the 92nd Bombardment Wing (Heavy) as the 92nd Wing, emphasizing its dual bombing and refueling role.

Dec. 7, 1993, marked the beginning of a significant change in the mission of Fairchild when a wing B-52 transferred to another base, the first step in Fairchild's transition to an air refueling wing. The departure of B-52s continued throughout the spring of 1994, with the last bomber leaving May 25, 1994. On July 1, 1994, the 92nd Wing was redesignated the 92nd Air Refueling Wing and Fairchild was transferred from Air Combat Command to Air Mobility Command in a ceremony marking the creation of the largest air refueling wing in the Air Force. Dubbed the new "tanker hub of the Northwest," the wing was capable of maintaining an air bridge across the nation and the world in support of U.S. and allied forces.

In 1995, Fairchild crews flew to Travis Air Force Base in California in support of its first Strategic Arms Reduction Treaty mission, transporting Russian inspectors to sites in the western U.S. In May 2000, the wing became the first active-duty KC-135 unit to transport U.S. inspectors on a START mission into Ulan-Ude, Russia.

Throughout much of the '90s, the wing took part in missions to suppress the aggression of Iraqi President Saddam Hussein. Wing personnel answered the call for operations such as Desert Strike and Phoenix Scorpion and routinely deployed in support of operations Southern Watch and Northern Watch. Operations Southern Watch and Northern Watch required a constant presence of tankers and associated support personnel to help enforce the United Nations-sanctioned no-fly zones in Iraq. Southwest Asia, however, was not the only trouble spot, as the wing also had to deploy aircraft and personnel in 1999 to support Operation Allied Force, the mission to stop Serbian aggression in Kosovo.

People around the world increasingly stay connected through social media, whether it be with a deployed service member, with friends and families in locations around the world or with the bases where you have been stationed or expect to transfer.

Here are some safety tips for using social media:

1. Never post confidential personal information such as your date of birth, address, Social Security number, or bank and credit card account numbers. Never provide this type of information when signing up for a social networking site. Most sites do not require it, and you should be wary of those that do.
2. Don't invite people whom you do not know to be your "friend." You do not want strangers to know details about you or your family.
3. Never share operational information, such as upcoming ports of call and military exercises. Such information can compromise operational security and the safety of our service members.

The Public Affairs Office can provide guidance on the type of information not to be shared in a public forum such as a social network or blog.

Following the 9/11 terrorist attacks on our nation, the wing began providing around-the-clock air refueling of Combat Air Patrol fighter aircraft and initiated 24-hour ground alert operations in support of Operation Noble Eagle, the defense of our homeland. Preparations also began for what would become a series of extended Operation Enduring Freedom deployments for aircrews and maintainers, as well as combat support and medical personnel. Wing personnel were also deployed from 2003 to 2011 in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation New Dawn. In 2011, wing personnel supported Operation Odyssey Dawn, the mission to resolve the crisis in Libya.

In March 2017, the Air Force relocated the 384th Air Refueling Squadron — nine KC-135 refueling tankers and their 50 crew members — from McConnell Air Force Base in Kansas to Fairchild, bringing the base tanker component to 44 aircraft. With the addition, the 92nd Air Refueling Wing now has three refueling squadrons: the new 384th, the 92nd and the 93rd.

Since its inception, the 92nd Air Refueling Wing has been involved in virtually every contingency mission around the world. Whether participating in combat operations or humanitarian relief missions, Fairchild tankers are force extenders, enabling U.S. and allied aircraft to successfully complete their missions. In addition, the wing's KC-135s routinely support special airlift missions in response to world events or international treaty compliance requirements.

ORGANIZATIONS

92ND AIR REFUELING WING

The 92nd Air Refueling Wing operates KC-135 R/T Stratotanker aircraft to support worldwide military missions. The wing provides aerial refueling, as well as rapid and reliable passenger and cargo airlift and aeromedical evacuations. Fairchild's missions support U.S. and coalition conventional operations and U.S. Strategic Command strategic deterrence missions.

Fairchild directly supports Air Mobility Command's mission, providing global reach airpower and deploying expeditionary combat support forces to meet worldwide contingency requirements. The wing's aerial refueling enhances the Air Force's ability to accomplish its primary missions of global reach and global power.

The 92nd Air Refueling Wing comprises four groups, as well as numerous staff agencies. The 92nd Operations Group is responsible for the wing's three flying squadrons and oversees the following functions: weather, tactics, aircrew training, aircrew flight equipment, airfield management, air traffic control, combat crew communications, current operations and the wing's flight simulator. The 92nd Maintenance Group provides field-level maintenance support for the aircraft and aerospace ground equipment, supporting worldwide aerial refueling and airlift operations. The 92nd Mission Support Group provides professional civil engineers; communications; contracting; logistics; force support; security forces; and combat, community and family support services for Fairchild and expeditionary commanders. The 92nd Medical Group provides health care services for more than 11,000 beneficiaries, including active-duty members, retirees and their families. Wing staff agencies include legal, plans and programs, safety, command and control, the chapel, public affairs, equal opportunity, information protection, community support coordinator, drug demand reduction program, the comptroller squadron, the sexual assault prevention program, protocol, the historian and the inspector general.

141ST AIR REFUELING WING

The Air National Guard's 141st Air Refueling Wing reports through the Washington state adjutant general to the governor to respond to natural disasters and civil unrest. In addition to its missions to protect life and property and preserve peace, order and public safety for the state, the wing also has a federal mission: to train, equip and deploy forces worldwide in support of specific contingency operations.

When mobilized by Congress or the president, the wing fulfills its constitutional role and supports Air Mobility Command's airlift and aerial refueling requirements under the 18th Air Force. The 141st Air Refueling Wing trains to provide global aerial refueling to U.S. and allied aircraft, counterdrug surveillance and interdiction, and combat support across the spectrum of conflict.

The mobility needs of the modern military have seen 141st Air Refueling Wing tankers in all corners of the world. The wing has supported Air Expeditionary Forces in Saudi Arabia, Qatar, Bahrain, Kyrgyzstan, Germany, France, Italy, Denmark, Turkey, Hungary, North and South America, and Australia. Since becoming a refueling wing, the unit has supported American forces and allies in conflicts in Europe and the Middle East, as well as numerous peacetime and humanitarian missions at home and abroad.

The unit, which has approximately 900 authorized personnel, works in conjunction with the 92nd Air Refueling Wing, highlighting total force integration between active-duty and Air National Guard wings.

Welcome

to Spokane County

NEAR THE EASTERN BORDER of Washington, Spokane County is 18 miles west of the Idaho border and 110 miles south of the Canadian border. Adjacent counties include Whitman County to the south, Lincoln County to the west, and Stevens and Pend Oreille counties to the north. The largest city between Seattle and Minneapolis on the Interstate 90 corridor, Spokane is the business, transportation, medical, industrial and cultural hub of the Inland Northwest.

Spokane County has a population of about 515,000 and is home to the city of Spokane, the county seat and second-largest city in the state after Seattle. The area boasts a diverse and beautiful landscape with everything from rolling wheat fields, lush forests, and lakes and raging rivers to deserts and snow-capped mountains. Recreational opportunities are as varied as the landscape's ideal settings for rock climbing, skiing, hiking, river-rafting, fishing, kayaking and more. The county's 75-plus parks include the 14,000-acre Riverside State Park and the 13,000-acre Mount Spokane State Park. The Centennial Trail, 37 miles long, is perfect for hiking and biking and can be accessed from numerous trailheads with power, water, picnic facilities, restrooms and river access.

Spokane is home to theaters, a zoological park, and more than 80 arts organizations and museums, including the Northwest Museum of Arts and Culture, and Mobius Kids, a hands-on discovery museum for children up to 10 years old. Other cultural attractions include the Spokane Symphony, the renovated Martin Woldson Theater at the Fox, the Interplayers Theatre and the Spokane Civic Theatre, plus nightlife, dining and shopping in addition to annual events and festivals that celebrate everything from Spokane's history to music and art.

HISTORY

The first visitors and settlers to the Spokane County area were Native Americans. The Spokane Indians of the Interior Salish group have lived in Washington, northern Idaho and western Montana for centuries and gave the city its name: Loosely translated, Spokane means "children of the sun" in the Salish language.

Mineral discoveries in the 1880s started a boom, and mines brought wealth to the area for decades. Other economic engines were the lush wheat-producing Palouse hills to the south, the irrigated farms in the Spokane Valley, and the railroads and timber that made Spokane the prosperous hub of the Inland Empire. By 1881, the Northern Pacific Railroad linked Spokane to the East Coast, opening the door to job-seekers, many looking for work in timber or mining, and to European settlement.

Incorporated on Nov. 29, 1881, Spokane continued to expand its infrastructure. A street railway system was established, bridges were built and platting the river's north shore began. After a downtown fire destroyed 32 blocks in 1889, new buildings were constructed with brick — and many of those buildings are still in use today. In the decade after the fire, Spokane's population nearly tripled to more than 104,000 by 1910.

Cheney was incorporated on Nov. 28, 1883, and Airway Heights on June 28, 1955, after the creation of Fairchild Air Force Base and Spokane International Airport.

In 1974, Spokane hosted a World's Fair, the smallest city at that time ever to have carried out such a lofty ambition. Expo '74, the first world's fair with an environmental theme, helped the city reclaim its depressed downtown and the Great Northern Railroad Depot. The rail yard, which had fallen into disrepair, was converted to a park to host the fair, and the area today is known as the 100-acre Riverfront Park.

In 1980, one of the geologically youngest volcanoes in Washington's western Cascades, Mount St. Helens, erupted. More than 50 people died in the catastrophic blast, and even Spokane, 200 miles to the east, was blanketed by volcanic ash.

The year before that, in 1979, Spokane County Parks proposed building a pedestrian pathway along the Spokane River to enhance public enjoyment and health, and the Spokane Valley Chamber of Commerce's Parks and Recreation Committee got on board with the idea: In 1986, they proposed a 10.5-mile trail in conjunction with Washington's 1989 centennial. Then, coordinating with Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, to the east, promoters expanded the plan to a two-state recreational trail from Spokane's Riverfront Park to the east side of Coeur d'Alene Lake. About 30 miles of the trail had been completed by 1992. The Spokane River Centennial Trail is contiguous with the North Idaho Centennial Trail, and the trails together, more than 60 miles long, now connect Spokane and Coeur d'Alene.

Liberty Lake was incorporated on Aug. 31, 2001. Spokane Valley was incorporated March 31, 2003, and was the largest incorporation in the state and the second-largest single incorporation in the history of the United States.

SAFETY

Every second counts in a disaster so planning and preparation can be lifesavers.

ALERT Spokane, an emergency community warning system, sends emergency messages via telephone, cellphone, Voice over Internet Protocol (VoIP), texting and email to residents and businesses in Spokane County. Emergency response personnel use the system when homes and businesses are at risk during an emergency and when police need help to solve crimes or to find missing persons. The system also relays information about hazardous situations, such as fires, hazardous material releases or police response activities, and protective measures to take during a disaster. For more information about disaster preparedness, visit www.alertspokane.org.

Another great resource for natural disaster and severe weather information is the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention website at www.cdc.gov/disasters. Here you can find information on how to prepare for various weather emergencies.

Visit the department's website for information about how to prepare for severe weather and to sign up for Alert Spokane, the county's emergency community warning system.

WEATHER AND CLIMATE

Spokane County enjoys four distinct seasons, though the county's location between the Rocky and Cascade mountain ranges keeps it protected from damp coastal weather and continental-type winters.

Thanks to its inland location, Spokane is on the "sunny side" of the state, with approximately 174 sunny days annually and low summertime humidity. The average high temperature in July is 83 degrees, and the average low is 54 degrees. Because it's in the "rain shadow" of the Cascades, Spokane receives much less rain than coastal cities like Seattle. Annual precipitation is about 17 inches.

Winter days are cloudy or foggy. The average high temperature in January is 33 degrees, and the average low is 22 degrees. The average annual snowfall is 46 inches per year, though Mount Spokane may receive much more, which is great for the skiers and snowboarders hitting the slopes.

Getting To & Around

Spokane County

THE BUSINESS AND CULTURE hub of the Inland Northwest, Spokane County is well-connected within the state and the rest of the United States. Major roadways include Interstate 90; U.S. routes 2, 195 and 395; and state routes 27, 206, 290, 291, 902 and 904. The new North Spokane Corridor connects U.S. highways 2 and 395 and, once complete, will be a major corridor for freight transport between Spokane and Canada.

Area businesses are also supported with rail service by the Burlington Northern Santa Fe, which has its main office in Spokane, and the Union Pacific/Southern Pacific. Both rail services ship nationally out of a switching yard in Spokane Valley.

For those arriving by air, Spokane International Airport is one of Washington's major airports, located 10 miles east of Fairchild Air Force Base. From the airport, there are a number of options (shuttle, car rental or public transportation) to get you around Spokane County.

AIRPORTS

For more information on bus schedules and fares, visit Gold Line's website.

DRIVING AND COMMUTING

Spokane County is traversed by one interstate highway, three U.S. highways and six state routes.

Interstate 90, the northernmost east-to-west, coast-to-coast interstate, connects two of the largest cities in the state: Spokane and Seattle. The four-lane interstate runs through the heart of Spokane County, connecting Liberty Lake, Spokane Valley and the city of Spokane. It is a major commuter route for the county and North Idaho, with traffic volumes exceeding 100,000 vehicles per day. The Washington State Department of Transportation has completed widening of the interstate from Sprague Avenue to Sullivan Road, and remaining projects will add two more lanes between the Sullivan Road Interchange and the Idaho state line.

U.S. Route 2 runs east to west through the county. The route begins in Everett and travels through Spokane to Newport. Within the county, it connects Fairchild Air Force Base and Airway Heights.

U.S. Route 195 has nearly all of its 95 miles within Washington. The north-south highway crosses the Idaho-Washington state line and continues into Spokane County, where it ends at the interchange with Interstate 90.

U.S. Route 395 is a north-south route that travels from the Canadian border to Spokane. The route, which eventually terminates in the south in the Mojave Desert, connects Deer Park to Clayton.

State Route 27 travels north to south, serving Whitman and Spokane counties. It terminates in Spokane Valley at state Route 290, north of Interstate 90.

State Route 206 is a 15-mile-long highway that serves Mount Spokane State Park. The route begins at U.S. Route 2 and travels east through the county and northeast into the Selkirk Mountains. The highway ends at the entrance to the state park.

Named Hamilton Street and Trent Avenue, state Route 290 is east-west route 18 miles long. It travels through the county parallel to the Union Pacific railroad from Interstate 90 in Spokane, then through Millwood toward Spokane Valley, where it intersects state Route 27.

State Route 291 begins in Spokane County at an intersection with U.S. Route 2 and U.S. Route 395. The route travels northwest to Nine Mile Falls, eventually intersecting with state Route 231 outside of the county.

State Route 902 is a 12-mile highway located entirely within Spokane County. The road travels through Medical Lake, beginning and ending at interchanges on Interstate 90/U.S. Route 395.

Like state Route 902, state Route 904 is located entirely within Spokane County. The route also begins and ends at interchanges on Interstate 90/U.S. Route 395, and travels through Cheney.

The new North Spokane Corridor was preliminarily opened in 2009. More than half of the corridor is complete and open to traffic. Once completed, the corridor will connect Interstate 90 on the southern end to the existing U.S. Highway 2 and U.S. Highway 395 on the northern end. The corridor will decrease travel time, fuel usage and traffic congestion, moving traffic away from local arterials. For updates on the North Spokane Corridor, visit the Washington State Department of Transportation at www.wsdot.wa.gov/projects/us395/northspokaneconnector.

SPOKANE COUNTY

An outdoor lover's paradise, Spokane County offers beautiful scenic views and numerous recreational opportunities to its residents. From the bustling, metropolitan city of Spokane to the small-town feel of the charming city of Cheney, Spokane County's communities are diverse.

Situated east of the Cascade Range and on the western slope of the Coeur d'Alene Mountains next to the Idaho-Washington state line, Spokane County contains 1,756 square miles. It is one of the oldest counties, created in 1858 and organized in 1860, only six years after the creation of the Washington Territory. Spokane County was annexed by Stevens County in 1864 and recreated in 1879. It is named after the Spokane tribe, which has inhabited northeast Washington, northern Idaho and western Montana for many centuries.

Spokane County is part of the Spokane-Spokane Valley Metropolitan Statistical Area, which is also part of the greater Spokane-Coeur d'Alene Combined Statistical Area that includes nearby Kootenai County, Idaho. Approximately 523,000 people called the county home, according to the U.S. Census Bureau.

The lowest point in the county is the Spokane River behind Long Lake Dam (boundary of Stevens County) at 1,538 feet. The highest point is the summit of Mount Spokane at 5,883 feet. Outdoor recreation opportunities abound, including hiking, camping, fishing and boating and golf.

PLANNING YOUR MOVE

Relocating to a new home can be one of the most stressful situations in life. Whether moving across town or the nation, preparation and organization make all the difference.

For military moves, visit www.move.mil for information about moving resources and to learn about the allowances and responsibilities of a military-sponsored move.

Regardless of which method you choose, the first step should be to inventory your personal belongings. The list, with photographs of any valuables, will be important for both insurance purposes and to help keep you organized during transit.

Plan for one full day to pack each room — though the kitchen and garage may take longer. Make a rough estimate of your packing schedule and then add 50 percent more time. It always takes longer than predicted to pack. Toss or donate unused items to lighten your load. Visit www.goodwill.org, www.salvationarmyusa.org or www.clothingdonations.org for locations near you or to arrange a pickup.

BUYING VERSUS RENTING

The decision to buy or rent is the most important step in your relocation process. Purchasing a home entails a long-term financial and emotional commitment with various pluses and minuses. Advantages include the possibility of building equity and the freedom to design and decorate your property or landscape. And don't forget the tax benefits. Disadvantages include upkeep, property taxes and fluctuating property values.

Renting, on the other hand, makes moving easier and someone else maintains the property. Amenities such as laundry rooms, exercise rooms, swimming pools and tennis courts vary from one rental complex to another. The main disadvantage is a loss of control over the residence. Some complexes, for example, restrict or prohibit pets and personal touches such as painting. And the landlord or property managers can also raise the rent with proper notice.

To determine your best choice, account for all of your needs, review your financial situation and research your options thoroughly.

FINDING AN APARTMENT

Be prepared when you meet with the leasing agent, property manager or owner. Bring a list of what you are looking for in a rental; it is important to be clear about your needs and to get all of your questions answered. You will also need to provide information and verification about your job, your income and your past rental history. Dress to make a good impression and treat the meeting like a job interview — be polite and arrive on time.

Use a written checklist with the landlord to document the condition of the rental before you move in, and keep a copy of the completed checklist to use when you move out.

“Your Rights as a Tenant in Washington State” by the Northwest Justice Project can be downloaded at www.washingtonlawhelp.org/resource/your-rights-as-a-tenant-in-washington.

BUYING A HOME

Buying a home is a complex process and, as the recent housing crisis demonstrated, requires a thorough education on the part of the buyer. First, fully understand your financial position — credit score, available savings, monthly income and expenditures. Subtracting your expenditures from your income, for instance, will yield the amount you can afford for housing.

Spokane County's communities give newcomers plenty of choices when selecting a home. Enlist the help of a reputable real estate agent to help you sort through the area's home options.

The Spokane Association of Realtors is a central source of local real estate information and services. Visit www.spokanerealtor.com to find expertise and professional services for those interested in purchasing a new home.

STATE PROGRAMS

Washington provides housing programs and incentives to help residents with home ownership. For more information, visit www.hud.gov/states and select “Washington” from the list.

JOB-SEEKER TIPS

Always keep your resume up-to-date and have several versions that target specific industries and highlight your skills that fit their job descriptions.

Compile several reference lists with a good variety of people and former business associates.

Be sure to first ask each if you can use them as references.

Compose a comprehensive, catchy and succinct cover letter of no more than a page (this is no place to ramble). It will introduce you and your desire to work for the company. Have a knowledgeable friend check it for errors; misspelled words and bad grammar hint at carelessness and indifference. Know what the company does, and highlight skills, work experience and education that apply to the position.

Maintain a positive, professional and broad-based presence on social media such as Facebook and LinkedIn; almost all employers search social media sites to vet job candidates, and your absence there will raise red flags. Also be aware that images and comments posted spur-of-the-moment can be searched out forever and come back to haunt you.

Be prepared for an interview at any time. When you submit your application, a supervisor may want to talk immediately, or the phone may ring with a call from a hiring director. Compose — and rehearse — your one-minute self-promotional speech on who you are, an achievement or two and your strengths. It's not vanity to make a good first impression. If a supervisor wants to know why she should hire you, be ready.

Always follow up with thank-you letters and calls. Even today, a letter, as well as the quick-response email, will separate you from a surprising number of the other applicants — to your advantage — and keep your name fresh in the interviewer's mind. Judicious calls display your continued interest. Writing out beforehand what you want to say helps. So does rehearsal.

Be aware that due to the usually huge numbers of applicants, most companies are able to follow up only with candidates in whom they are interested. Don't take it personally if you are not notified that you did not get the job.

PETS

Moves are stressful for everyone — including the family pet. Pets can sense stress and a change in routine can be difficult for them. If possible, keep your pets in a quiet, secure area while movers pack up or unload your belongings. Movers will have your door open while they move boxes and furniture, and a pet may slip out the door undetected. Make sure you keep a collar with an ID tag on your pet at all times. Ensure the tag has your current phone number on it. It is also a good idea to microchip your pets. Remember to keep the microchip's contact information up to date. If your pet escapes during any part of your move, you want the animal shelter that scans the chip to be able to contact you.

Your pet faces many new outside dangers such as coyotes, wolves and bobcats. Many people assume that these animals don't live in the area because they don't see them. That assumption can be dangerous to your pet. Coyotes and bobcats hunt small mammals such as mice and rabbits but will attack cats or small dogs if given the opportunity. Wolves view dogs as competitors or territorial intruders and have attacked and killed them, especially in remote areas. The best way to protect your pet is to only let them outside at night when you are with them and to keep their food and water inside. Another preventive measure is to install outdoor lighting so animals cannot approach the area unseen.

Education & Academics

in Spokane County

FINDING THE RIGHT SCHOOLS and educational opportunities for each family member is an important part of any move. This chapter outlines Spokane County's public school system, private schools, charter schools and home schooling criteria, as well as local libraries and higher education institutions. To be enrolled in a Washington school, a child must be at least 5 years old by Aug. 31 of the academic year. Those wishing to register their child in school should take the following to the school office: a birth certificate or other proof of the child's age, the child's previous school records and immunization records. Check with the school for additional requirements. For more details on Washington's minimum vaccine requirements for students in grades K-12, visit the Washington State Department of Health's website at www.doh.wa.gov/CommunityandEnvironment/Schools/Immunization.

In 2010, Washington, along with most other states, the District of Columbia, Guam, American Samoa, the Northern Mariana Islands, the U.S. Virgin Islands and the Department of Defense Education Activity, adopted Common Core State Standards that provide a consistent set of educational expectations for students regardless of ZIP code. When a family moves, a student's education is often disrupted because the student may be forced to repeat material or learn at a different level at the new school. With common standards across states, this disruption will be reduced — of particular interest to military families. At present, national Common Core State Standards exist only for English language arts and mathematics though Washington has state standards across the full curriculum. For more information, visit www.corestandards.org.

CHOOSING A SCHOOL

Choosing the right school is very important, so be sure to research each one before deciding. Contact the school by phone or by visiting its website, which is a valuable source to learn about a school district's statistics and curriculum. Talk to people in the area, especially friends and colleagues who already live there.

If the school shows promise, schedule a visit and bring a list of written questions about student-teacher ratios, computer availability, extracurricular activities, sports programs, music programs, gifted programs and grading standards.

Discuss the potential school with your child: what they liked and what they didn't like. Your family's ability to readily adapt to a move and to find happiness in your new home may depend, in part, on how happy your children are in their new school.

CHARTER SCHOOLS

Charter schools are public schools of choice that are tuition-free, serve all students and have open enrollment. For more information or a listing of charter schools in Washington, visit the Washington State Charter School Association's website at www.wacharters.org.
