Our Military

at Fort Huachuca

LOCATED IN SOUTHEAST ARIZONA'S Cochise County, about 15 miles north of the United States-Mexico border, Fort Huachuca is an Army installation with a rich frontier history. Established in 1877, the fort was annexed in 1971 by the city of Sierra Vista and declared a national landmark in 1976.

Today, Fort Huachuca is the largest employer in Cochise County and the largest economic contributor in Arizona. The fort develops and tests command, control, communications, computers, combat systems, intelligence, surveillance and reconnaissance capabilities. The fort delivers intelligence and unmanned aircraft systems training and education. The fort also designs, develops and integrates intelligence capabilities, concepts and doctrine. Fort Huachuca provides world-class quality support services to the Huachuca community to enable mission command in support of Army and joint operations and the continued evolution of Fort Huachuca.

The fort's unique environment encompasses 946 square miles of restricted airspace and 2,500 square miles of protected electronic ranges, key components to the national defense mission. Fort Huachuca's training areas include land navigation courses, the Leadership Reaction Course, NBC and obstacle confidence courses, the rappel tower, the rope bridge construction site, the urban operations site, the Warrior Task Complex and weapon ranges.

The fort is home to the U.S. Army Intelligence Center of Excellence, 111th Military Intelligence Brigade, U.S. Army Electronic Proving Ground, U.S. Army Information Systems Engineering Command, U.S. Army Network Enterprise Technology Command, Libby Army Airfield and approximately 50 supported tenants representing a diverse, multiservice population.

Population

Fort Huachuca is a joint service installation that trains more than 9,000 students a year. At any given time, the fort has more than 5,600 military personnel, 8,000 civilians and 11,000 family members.

HISTORY

Fort Huachuca is a product of the Indian Wars of the 1870s and 1880s. In February 1877, Col. August V. Kautz, commander of the Department of Arizona, ordered that a camp be established in the Huachuca Mountains. This camp would offer protection to settlers and travel routes in southeastern Arizona while simultaneously blocking the traditional Apache escape routes through the San Pedro and Santa Cruz valleys to sanctuary in Mexico. A temporary camp was established at the post's current location March 3, 1877, by Capt. Samuel Marmaduke Whitside with two companies of the 6th Cavalry. The site was selected because it had fresh running water, an abundance of trees, excellent observation in three directions and protective high ground essential for security against Apache tactical methods. Camp Huachuca was designated a fort in 1882. In 1886, Gen. Nelson A. Miles designated Fort Huachuca as his advance headquarters and forward supply

People around the world increasingly stay connected through social media, whether it be with a deployed service member, with friends and families in locations around the world or with the bases where you have been stationed or expect to transfer.

Here are some safety tips for using social media:

- Never post confidential personal information such as your date of birth, address, Social Security number, or bank and credit card account numbers.
 Never provide this type of information when signing up for a social networking site. Most sites do not require it, and you should be wary of those that do.
- 2. Don't invite people whom you don't know to be your "friend." You do not want strangers to know details about you or your family.
- 3. Never share operational information, such as upcoming ports of call and military exercises. Such information can compromise operational security and the safety of our service members.

The Public Affairs Office can provide guidance on the type of information that should not be shared in a public forum such as a social network or blog.

base for the Geronimo campaign. Geronimo's surrender in August 1886 practically ended the Apache danger in southern Arizona. The Army closed more than 50 camps and forts in the territory, but Fort Huachuca was retained because of continuing border troubles involving renegade American Indians, Mexican bandits, and American outlaws and freebooters.

In 1913, the 10th Cavalry "Buffalo Soldiers" arrived and remained almost 20 years. The 10th Cavalry joined Gen. John J. Pershing in the 1916 expedition into Mexico, and, during World War I, it was assigned the mission of guarding the United States-Mexico border. By 1933, the 25th Infantry Regiment had replaced the 10th Cavalry as the main combat unit for the fort. The 25th, in turn, was absorbed by the 93rd Infantry Division during World War II. When the 93rd departed for the Pacific in 1943, the 92nd Infantry Division arrived at the fort for training and subsequent assignment to the European Theater. During the war years, the troop strength reached 30,000 men at the fort, which in the 1930s had been described as suitable for a brigade-sized unit of about 10,000 men. At war's end, the fort was declared surplus and transferred to the state of Arizona. It was reactivated during the Korean War by the Army Engineers.

A new era began in 1954 when control passed to the chief signal officer, who found the area and climate ideal for testing electronic and communications equipment. The importance of the fort in the national defense picture grew steadily from that moment. In 1967, Fort Huachuca became the headquarters of the U.S. Army Strategic Communications Command. Then, in 1971, the post became the home of the U.S. Army Intelligence Center and School, bringing with it the School Brigade. The Strategic Communications Command became the U.S. Army Communications Command in 1973, subsequently changing to the U.S. Army Information Systems Command in 1984 and to the U.S. Army Signal Command in 1997. On Oct. 1, 2002, the U.S. Army Signal Command was renamed the U.S. Army's Network Enterprise Technology Command. In October 1990, the post changed hands when the U.S. Army Training and Doctrine Command became the new host command. Installation Management Command now operates the post.

Today, Fort Huachuca is the major military installation in Arizona and one of prominence throughout the Southwest.

ORGANIZATIONS U.S. ARMY INTELLIGENCE CENTER OF EXCELLENCE

Fort Huachuca became the home of Army intelligence in 1971, when the Intelligence School moved from Fort Holabird, Maryland. Since its inception in 1955, the school's mission has been to train selected personnel and to perform intelligence and security duties in the fields of imagery, interrogation, counterintelligence, area studies and combat intelligence. In 1973, the Intelligence School combined with the combat surveillance portion of the Combat Surveillance and Electronic Warfare School and the U.S. Army Combat Developments Command Intelligence Agency. They formed the first true U.S. Army Intelligence Center and School. This amalgamation added combat surveillance aspects to the school's academic instruction and gave the center an expanded combat and training development role. On July 1, 1987, the 25th anniversary of the Military Intelligence Branch, the Military Intelligence Corps was activated as part of the U.S. Regimental System at Fort Huachuca.

Today, the U.S. Army Intelligence Center of Excellence delivers intelligence training and education focused on doctrine and tactical intelligence tasks in order to enable current and future Army readiness.

111TH MILITARY INTELLIGENCE BRIGADE

The 111th Military Intelligence Brigade conducts Initial Military Training and Professional Military Education, preparing officers and soldiers to lead and execute tactical intelligence operations in large scale combat operations.

U.S. ARMY ELECTRONIC PROVING GROUND

The U.S. Army Electronic Proving Ground is the Army's command, control, communications, computers and intelligence (known as C4I) developmental tester. EPG plans, conducts, analyzes and reports the results of developmental tests in support of its network; electronic warfare; and command, control, communications, computers, intelligence, surveillance and reconnaissance customers. In addition to conducting developmental tests, EPG supports the Army operational test community in the conduct of operational tests, user tests and experiments. The EPG's C4I expertise allows them to support customers in the joint and training communities as well. The EPG conducts bench tests, lab tests, field tests, and large-scale, geographically distributed systems of systems tests. The EPG employs a mix of live and simulated instrumentation and assets.

EPG is unique within the DOD because of its naturally quiet electromagnetic environment, its unique specialized facilities, its close relationship with the Army training community, and its ability to use the expansive real estate of southern Arizona. Operations are routinely possible on 70,000 acres at Fort Huachuca, 23,000 acres on Wilcox Dry Lake, more than 100,000 acres at Gila Bend, and with prior coordination, on approximately 62 million acres of federal and state owned land.

U.S. ARMY INFORMATION SYSTEMS ENGINEERING COMMAND

The U.S. Army Information Systems Engineering Command provides systems engineering, installation, integration implementation, and evaluation support for communications and information technology systems worldwide. The command designs, engineers, integrates, develops, sustains, installs, tests and accepts information systems. These services provide capabilities to Army organizations, combatant commanders, Department of Defense agencies and federal agencies in support of the warfighter.

U.S. ARMY NETWORK ENTERPRISE TECHNOLOGY COMMAND

The Network Enterprise Technology Command is the Army's single information technology service provider for all network communications. A major subordinate command to U.S. Army Cyber Command, NETCOM maintains and defends the Global Network Enterprise to enable information superiority and freedom of access to the network in all phases of joint, interagency, intergovernmental and multinational operations. NETCOM plans, engineers, installs, integrates, protects and operates Army cyberspace.

LIBBY ARMY AIRFIELD

Libby Army Airfield is unique to the U.S. Army because it is used jointly by military and civilian activities. The runways, taxiways, navigation aids and air traffic control are shared by military and civilian aircraft. The nearest commercial airport is in Tucson, Arizona.

Civilian operations are concentrated on the north side of the airfield, while military operations are concentrated on the south side of the airfield. Civilian aviation activities at the airfield are under the auspices of the city of Sierra Vista by agreement with the Department of the Army.

Military and government agencies that are permanently assigned to or utilize Libby Army Airfield are the U.S. Army Intelligence Center, U.S. Army Electronic Proving Ground, U.S. Air Force, Arizona Air National Guard, Missouri Air National Guard, U.S. Forest Service and U.S. Customs Service.

ARRIVAL

See the Getting To & Around Cochise County chapter on Page 15 for information about local airports, train service and public transportation. The closest major airport is Tucson International Airport, about 70 miles from the post.

SPONSORSHIP

Contact your sponsor with your estimated arrival time and flight information if applicable before your arrival at Fort Huachuca.

Sponsorship is vital to the relocation process. Don't PCS without talking to your sponsor before departing for Fort Huachuca. Your sponsor will answer any questions you have about the base and the local area, make lodging or dorm arrangements and meet you upon arrival. Your sponsor will be there to help you and your family until you are settled into your new community.

If you have not been in touch with a sponsor and your departure is nearing, contact your gaining unit or call the Solider & Family Readiness Center at 520-533-2330.

DRIVING DIRECTIONS

Cellphone use by the driver of a moving motor vehicle is prohibited on all Department of Defense installations unless the cellphone is used with a hands-free device.

From Tucson International Airport

Take Tucson Boulevard to Valencia Road. Turn right at the light on Valencia Road and continue on this road until you see a sign on the right for Interstate 10 east (El Paso). Go east on I-10 to Exit 302, the Fort Huachuca-Sierra Vista exit. Continue on state Route 90 until you see the signs for Fort Huachuca (approximately 27 miles). Entrance to the fort may be made at the east gate, which is the first gate on the right, or the main gate, which is further down on the right-hand side as well.

HOUSING

Housing Services Office

Building 52065......520-533-3611

The Housing Services Office is ready to help you transition to your new home and community. Use its resources to become familiar with available housing options and support services. When you arrive at Fort Huachuca, visit the office for valuable information, counseling and guidance before signing any lease or sales contract for housing.

Unaccompanied Personnel Housing

Barracks manager......520-533-3534

Unaccompanied personnel housing is available for single soldiers in the grade of E-5 and below. E-4 and below share a latrine and kitchen area but have private bedrooms. E-5s have an entire suite.

Unaccompanied soldiers in the rank of E-6 and above and officers will move into housing in the local community.

Family Housing

Building 52065,

At Fort Huachuca, military family housing is privatized. In addition to your option to purchase and rent housing in the local community, you may choose to live in privatized housing by signing a tenant lease agreement with Mountain Vista Communities, which owns the family housing and is responsible for constructing, maintaining, repairing and managing the community.

For comprehensive information about homes and amenities in the Fort Huachuca privatized housing community, visit the Mountain Vista Communities website.

MAIL

Post Office

The fort's post office provides all services, including express mail and post office box rentals.

Welcome to Cochise County

WELCOME TO ARIZONA, THE Grand Canyon State! In the southeast corner of Arizona, you'll find Cochise County stretching from the eastern border with New Mexico, the southern and U.S. border with Mexico, and Pima and Santa Cruz counties on the west. Cochise County Cochise County is larger in land mass than the states of Rhode Island and Connecticut combined. In 2019, it had a population of 125,922, according to the U.S. Census. The county is home to Fort Huachuca as well as neighboring city Sierra Vista. Bisbee, the county seat, had a population of 5,225.

The county offers many historical and cultural attractions, plus modern amenities. In addition to its wide-open landscapes, open skies and peaceful natural settings, there are archeological sites, museums and parks. Outdoor activities abound, including golfing, camping, hiking and more.

There are also shopping, dining and nightlife opportunities for residents to explore: Annual events and festivals celebrate everything from cowboy poets to vintage cars to gems and minerals — all showcasing the vibrancy of Arizona.

HISTORY

The earliest residents of the area now known as Cochise County were Paleo-Indians, who settled in pueblos near current-day Fairbank and throughout the surrounding valley. Eventually, European exploration and settlement of the area began, and a Spanish fort, Presidio Santa Cruz de Terrenate, was built in 1776 on the Western bank of the San Pedro River. Spanish settlements in the area supported the presidio and routes to the Mission San Xavier del Bac and Presidio San Agustín del Tucsón to the west.

Much of the land of Cochise County was part of the Gadsden Purchase, which transferred ownership from Mexico to the United States in 1854. Residents of the area gained full U.S. citizenship and slowly assimilated into American life over the next half-century. At the end of the Apache Wars near the 1880s, with the establishment of Camp Huachuca in 1877 and the expansion of the Southern Pacific and El Paso & Southwestern railroads at the end of 19th century, the San Pedro Valley began to be populated by American settlers.

Cochise County, named after the Apache chief, was created in 1881, cut from eastern portion of nearby Pima County. In 1886, Gen. Nelson A. Miles designated Fort Huachuca as his advance headquarters and forward supply base for the campaign against Apache leader Geronimo. Geronimo's surrender in August 1886 largely ended the Apache danger in southern Arizona. The Army closed more than 50 camps and forts in the territory, but Fort Huachuca was retained because of continuing border troubles.

The surrounding areas at the time were noted for some of the most violent altercations of the American Old West, among Native Americans, white settlers, large-scale ranch owners, silver and copper mining interests, border crossers and all the issues that come with boomtown expansion and land conflict. The most well-known of these events has been called the Cochise County feud or the Earp-Clanton feud, which included the historic gunfight at the O.K. Corral in Tombstone, which was the county seat until 1929, when it moved to Bisbee.

Throughout the turn of the century and into the early 1900s, great deposits of silver, copper and lead were mined from the region's mountains. The industry drew prospectors near and far to the cities of Tombstone and Bisbee especially. But as the mines became depleted, populations in those cities declined. Agriculture became more prominent, with cotton and cattle as major industries.

As the nation entered World War II, Fort Huachuca and the surrounding cities saw an influx of people. During the war years, the troop strength reached 30,000 men at the fort, which in the 1930s had been described as suitable for a brigade- sized unit of about 10,000 men. At war's end, the fort was declared surplus and transferred to the state of Arizona. It was reactivated during the Korean War by the Army Engineers.

Today, hundreds of registered National Historic Places and buildings, walking tours, popular Old West re-enactments and even a movie set carry on the spirit of days gone by. But tourism doesn't just cater to history buffs. Nature lovers can enjoy the Coronado National Forest, which covers an estimated 1.78 million acres of southeastern Arizona and southwestern New Mexico. Travelers looking for international attractions are also in luck. The City of Douglas sits on the U.S.-Mexico border and shares a positive cross-cultural relationship with its sister town Agua Prieta, Sonora, Mexico.

WEATHER AND CLIMATE

Cochise County — more specifically Sierra Vista, which neighbors Fort Huachuca — is classified as semi-arid in mid-altitude Arizona. Summers are hot and partly cloudy, and the winters are cold, dry and mostly clear. Throughout the year, the temperature typically varies from the high 30s to the low 90s, with few days below 29 degrees or above 99 degrees. The city has a fairly stable climate with little humidity, in fact, fall and spring are usually extremely dry. Summer starts off dry but progressively gets wetter as the monsoon season approaches. Winters are cool to cold with frosts which can occasionally be hard freezes.

Local Hazards

Every second counts in a disaster so planning and preparation can be lifesavers.

The Arizona Department of Homeland Security provides residents, communities, public safety professionals, businesses and schools with invaluable information and resources for dealing with calamities, from floods to fires to earthquakes, hazardous waste and terrorism, to name just a few. Go to the website, https://azdohs.gov, and click on "Community Preparedness" and then "Residents" to learn how to confront specific emergencies, create an emergency plan and emergency kit, save your pet, and make necessary adaptations for the elderly and those with special needs.

Another great resource for natural disaster and severe weather information is the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention website at www.cdc.gov/disasters. Here you can find information on how to prepare for various weather emergencies.

DRIVING AND COMMUTING

One U.S. Interstate, two U.S. Routes and various state routes cross Cochise County.

Interstate 10 runs east/west through the northern part of the county, connecting cities such as San Simon, Wilcox, Benson and Mescal. U.S. Route 191 divides the county north/south between I-10 and Douglas near the U.S.-Mexico border. Closer to Fort Huachuca, State Route 80 stretches from Benson south to Bisbee, and State Route 90 brings drivers south from I-10 to Sierra Vista, the closest city to Fort Huachuca. State Route 82 links SR 80 and SR 90 about 12 miles north of the installation.

When leaving the county, following I-10 west will lead to Tucson, about 75 miles away, while SR 82 winds southwest to the border town of Nogales, Arizona, about 60 miles away.

The Arizona Department of Transportation offers free, real-time traffic alerts at www.az511. gov. Registered users can also create a personalized profile to receive and obtain phone, text or email updates about incidents on their specified routes at www.az511.gov or by dialing 511.

Housing & Real Estate

in Cochise County

A LOW COST OF living and abundant natural amenities in Cochise County contribute to a good quality of life not often found in larger metropolitan areas. In 2019, an estimated 125,922 people called the county home, the U.S. Census Bureau says. Population density in Cochise County was 21 people per square mile in 2010, the Census found.

Fort Huachuca is a joint service installation that trains more than 9,000 students a year. At any given time, the fort has more than 5,600 military personnel, 8,000 civilians and 11,000 family members — many of which live in the surrounding communities. Additionally, more than 18,000 veterans live in the area.

COCHISE COUNTY

Vast and full of natural beauty, Cochise County is about 6,200 square miles in the southeast corner of Arizona. It borders southwestern New Mexico and northeastern Sonora in Mexico. Elevation across the county is about 4,200 feet. Graham and Greenlee counties lie to the north, and Santa Cruz and Pima counties lie to the west. The communities in the county are loaded with style, attractions and history. Benson, Bisbee and Tombstone are legendary spots within a short drive (or bike ride) from Sierra Vista. Also short distances away are Douglas and Nogales, international border towns that offer great shopping and dining experiences. For more information, check out the Cochise Chamber of Commerce website at http://cochise.arizonacolor.us/dir/chamber.

Major cities in Cochise County near Fort Huachuca include Benson, Bisbee, Douglas, Sierra Vista and Tombstone.

Benson

www.cityofbenson.com

Founded in 1880 with the arrival of the Southern Pacific Railroad, Benson is about 45 miles east-southeast of Tucson, Arizona. About 4,900 people make their home within the city's 41 total square miles.

Like communities in Cochise County, Benson also owes its early growth to silver and copper mining. The Southern Pacific, coming overland from California, chose Benson as the place to cross the San Pedro River. Copper and silver ore was brought in covered wagons to Benson and then shipped out on the railroad.

As more railroad lines were built, Benson developed into the "Hub City." Agriculture and ranching were aided by the drilling in the 1890s. But the establishment of schools and churches brought greater stability to Benson in the early 1900s.

Apache Nitrogen Products was formed in the 1920s and was a major employer. The city today is perhaps best known as the gateway to Kartchner Caverns State Park.

The median monthly gross rent was $673, and median selected monthly costs for homeowners with a mortgage were $1,072. Workers' average commute time was 20.2 minutes.

Bisbee

www.bisbeeaz.gov

The seat of Cochise County, Bisbee is 92 miles southeast of Tucson and 11 miles north of the U.S.-Mexico border. The city's 5.18 square miles are home to about 5,225 than residents.

Founded in 1880 as a copper, gold and silver mining town, Bisbee drew prospectors and speculators hoping to strike it rich. Numerous ore bodies around Bisbee solidified its reputation as the "Queen of the Copper Camps." Mining in the Mule Mountains was extremely successful, and the city became one of the richest mineral sites in the world, producing nearly 3 million ounces of gold and more than 8 billion pounds of copper.

With prosperity came an increased population and the need for sanitation, clean water, medical care, and more. In 1902 the City of Bisbee was incorporated. By 1910 the city was considered the largest in the territory, with over 25,000 people — making Bisbee one of the largest cities between St. Louis and San Francisco.

In 1917, open-pit mining was successfully introduced to meet the copper demand during World War I. But when miners attempted to unionize to gain better working conditions and wages, the Phelps Dodge Corporation, using private police and deputized sheriffs, transported at gun point over 1,000 striking miners out of town to Hermanas, New Mexico, in an incident known as the Bisbee Deportation.

During almost a century of mining, 8 billion pounds of copper, 102 million ounces of silver and 2.8 million ounces of gold were produced. But by 1974 ore reserves had been depleted and the Phelps Dodge company curtailed open pit operations that year and ceased underground operations in 1975.

With the departure of its industrial base, the real estate market in Bisbee collapsed as hundreds of homes went up for sale. It was at that time that the city became a haven for artists and hippies fleeing the larger cities of Arizona and California. Today, Bisbee is a well-known artist's community and tourist destination where architectural and historic heritage has been preserved.

Median rent in the city is $658, and selected monthly owner costs of housing units with a mortgage are $973. Mean travel time to work for those living in Bisbee is 19.8 minutes.

Douglas

www.douglasaz.gov

First settled by the Spanish in the 18th century, the area that would later become Douglas was originally the site of Presidio de San Bernadino in 1776 and Camp San Bernadino much later in the second half of the 19th century. Created as a smelter town to handle copper ore from nearby Bisbee, Douglas was founded in 1901 and incorporated four years later.

The city's bustling economy provided opportunities for many. The city was thriving and Douglas became a gathering place for the people who worked the copper smelters and who farmed and ranched in the valley. At one time, Douglas was home to more than 13 movie theaters. The most famous and the only building remaining today is the Grand Theater.

The influence of copper mining was significant for several decades until the smelter ceased operations in 1987 and the one of the city's most recognizable landmarks, the smelter's smokestacks, were dismantled.

Today Douglas is a small, charming border community with about 15,000 residents and has been recently dubbed one of the nation's best "micropolitan" areas, with superior amenities, growing economies and moderate costs of living. The city continues to play a vital role as a gateway to Mexico and the Rio Sonora region and shares a rich, cultural and economic history with its sister city, Agua Prieta, Mexico.

The median monthly gross rent is $584, and median selected monthly costs for homeowners with a mortgage are $938, the U.S. Census says. Workers' average commute time is 16.3 minutes.

Sierra Vista

www.sierravistaaz.gov

The City of Sierra Vista is the youngest of the major communities of Cochise County. Sierra Vista, Spanish for "Mountain View," has always enjoyed clean air, ideal weather and spectacular views of the Mule, Dragoon, Whetstone and Huachuca mountains.

The city's creation and identity are rooted in the settlement of Arizona but more specifically the establishment of Fort Huachuca in the late 1800s. In fact, the first businesses — saloons and the like — were opened in close proximity to the Fort Huachuca east gate. By about 1915, the town was the small settlement known as Buena.

Sometime later the name was changed to Overton and still later to Garden Canyon. In 1927, a post office was established. It wasn't until 1956 that Sierra Vista was incorporated.

Today, the total area of Sierra Vista is 152 square miles with a population of 43,045. Mean travel time to work is 17.6 minutes. Median rent in the city is $960, and selected monthly owner costs of housing units with a mortgage are $1,299.

Tombstone

www.cityoftombstoneaz.gov

Tombstone is rich in Old West history that continues to be written today, thus it continues to earn its nickname of "The Town Too Tough to Die." It currently counts about 1,380 residents within its 9.25 square miles.

Founded in 1877, the city became one of the last boomtowns of the American frontier. News of silver deposits spread and quickly and brought prospectors, miners, businessmen, lawmen and the lawless, until the population of Tombstone swelled to 15,000 in 1881. While bustling businesses were situated atop many silver mines, underlying tensions between industrialists and city dwellers versus ranchers led to conflict, especially with the proximity to the U.S.-Mexico border. Friction between cowboys and lawman Wyatt Earp, his brothers Virgil and Morgan, and their friend "Doc" Holliday came to a head at what perhaps the city is best known for: the shootout at the O.K. Corral.

Mining continued and the shafts reached the water table in 1881. Tombstone's prosperity would fluctuate with the national economy and the price of silver. Both reached their lowest in 1889, and after the pumps failed, mining operations virtually ceased. The city nearly became a ghost town, saved only because it was the Cochise County seat until 1929.

Books, movies and TV would boost Tombstone back into the public consciousness in the 1950s and 1960s, and these portrayals reached their pinnacle in 1993 and 1994 with movies such as "Tombstone" and "Wyatt Earp." Today, thousands of tourists flock to the city for historical re-enactments and to experience some of the Old West action.

Median rent is $750, and selected monthly owner costs of housing units with a mortgage are $1,072

PLANNING YOUR MOVE

Relocating to a new home can be one of the most stressful situations in life. Whether moving across town or the nation, preparation and organization make all the difference.

For military moves, visit www.move.mil for information about moving resources and to learn about the allowances and responsibilities of a military-sponsored move.

Regardless of which method you choose, the first step should be to inventory your personal belongings. The list, with photographs of any valuables, will be important for both insurance purposes and to help keep you organized during transit.

Plan for one full day to pack each room—though the kitchen and garage may take longer. Make a rough estimate of your packing schedule and then add 50 percent more time. It always takes longer than predicted to pack. Toss or donate unused items to lighten your load. Visit www.goodwill.org, www.salvationarmyusa.org or www.clothingdonations.org for locations near you or to arrange a pickup.

BUYING VERSUS RENTING

The decision to buy or rent is the most important step in your relocation process. Purchasing a home entails a long-term financial and emotional commitment with various pluses and minuses. Advantages include the possibility of building equity and the freedom to design and decorate your property or landscape. And don't forget the tax benefits. Disadvantages include upkeep, property taxes and fluctuating property values.

Renting, on the other hand, makes moving easier and someone else maintains the property. Amenities such as laundry rooms, exercise rooms, swimming pools and tennis courts vary from one rental complex to another. The main disadvantage is a loss of control over the residence. Some complexes, for example, restrict or prohibit pets and personal touches such as painting. And the landlord or property managers can also raise the rent with proper notice.

To determine your best choice, account for all of your needs, review your financial situation and research your options thoroughly.

FINDING AN APARTMENT

Be prepared when you meet with the leasing agent, property manager or owner. Bring a list of what you are looking for in a rental; it is important to be clear about your needs and to get all of your questions answered. You will also need to provide information and verification about your job, your income and your past rental history. Dress to make a good impression and treat the meeting like a job interview — be polite and arrive on time.

Use a written checklist with the landlord to document the condition of the rental before you move in, and keep a copy of the completed checklist to use when you move out.

The Arizona Tenants' Rights and Responsibilities Handbook can be downloaded at https://www.azag.gov/sites/default/files/docs/civil-rights/discrimination/TenantRightsResponsibilities.pdf.

BUYING A HOME

Buying a home is a complex process and, as the recent housing crisis demonstrated, requires a thorough education on the part of the buyer. First, fully understand your financial position — credit score, available savings, monthly income and expenditures. Subtracting your expenditures from your income, for instance, will yield the amount you can afford for housing.

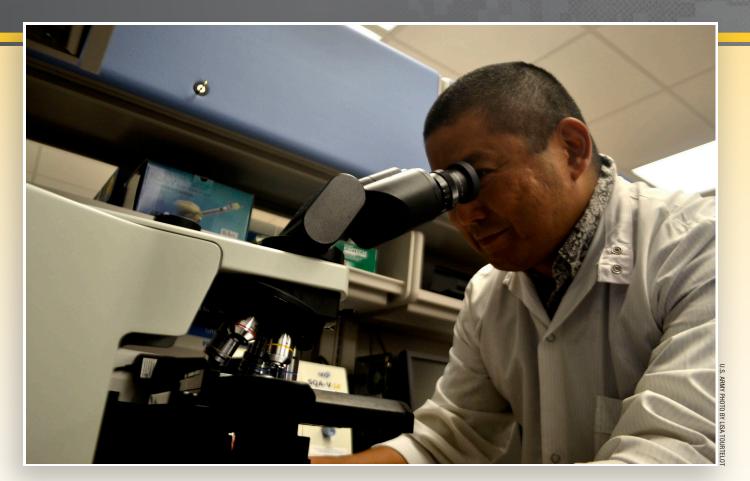

The counties' communities give newcomers plenty of choices when selecting a home. Enlist the help of a reputable real estate agent to help you sort through the area's home options. The Arizona Association of Realtors is a central source of local real estate information and assistance. Those interested in purchasing a new home can find the expertise and professional services they need at www.aaronline.com.

State Programs

Arizona provides housing programs and incentives to help residents with home ownership. For more information, visit www.hud.gov/states and select "Arizona" from the list.

Employment & Economy

in Cochise County

An area rich in historical significance and enchanting themes, Cochise County is perfectly situated between Old West charm and modern economic opportunity. With the proximity of Fort Huachuca, which employs a large percentage of the county's populace, and the proximity of the U.S. border with Mexico, this "Land of Legends" in Southeast Arizona faces some of the same economic challenges as other agricultural parts of the state and nation but is building on its unique assets and technology for a stronger financial future.

Cochise County is home to an abundance of development opportunities thanks to land availability, affordable commercial space, high quality healthcare and education, low taxes and easy access to Interstate 10 and rail transportation. opportunities, a temperate climate, a low cost of living, unique communities, an excellent quality of life and an educated and a highly educated and bilingual workforce, make the area even more attractive for growth. Specifically, the county has been prioritizing cross-border trade, supporting a growing wine industry, improving county airports and technology infrastructure, and promoting the region to businesses and visitors.

The median age in Cochise County is about 40 years old, meaning the workforce skews a bit older. Median household income is $48,649, according to the U.S. Census Bureau. The state income tax rates range from 2.59 percent to 4.5 percent, with higher brackets paying higher rates.

Fort Huachuca

Established in 1877, Fort Huachuca today develops and tests command, control, communications, computers, combat systems, intelligence, surveillance and reconnaissance capabilities. The Army base is the largest employer in Cochise County and the largest economic contributor in Arizona — easy to understand with a population of more than 5,600 military personnel, 8,000 civilians and 11,000 family members. According to Cochise County, Fort Huachuca directly employs about 2,700 civilian workers with an additional 400 civilians employed by other agencies operating on the installation, including U.S. Department of Homeland Security, Fort Huachuca Accommodation Schools, Army and Air Force Exchange Service, and others. The fort also contracts with numerous area firms employing several thousand workers. In 2017, an Economic Impact of Arizona's Principal Military Operations report estimated the annual direct, indirect and induced impact of Fort Huachuca on Cochise County at $2.9 billion. The employment impact was estimated at 21,327 jobs countywide with $999.2 million in associated earnings.

EMPLOYMENT RESOURCES

National Resources

JOB-SEEKER TIPS

Always keep your resume up-to-date and have several versions that target specific industries and highlight your skills that fit their job descriptions.

Compile several reference lists with a good variety of people and former business associates. Be sure to first ask each if you can use them as references.

Compose a comprehensive, catchy and succinct cover letter of no more than a page (this is no place to ramble). It will introduce you and your desire to work for the company. Have a knowledgeable friend check it for errors; misspelled words and bad grammar hint at carelessness and indifference. Know what the company does, and highlight skills, work experience and education that apply to the position.

Maintain a positive, professional and broadbased presence on social media such as Facebook and LinkedIn; almost all employers search social media sites to vet job candidates, and your absence there will raise red flags. Also be aware that images and comments posted spur-of-themoment can be searched out forever and come back to haunt you. Be prepared for an interview at any time. When you submit your application, a supervisor may want to talk immediately, or the phone may ring with a call from a hiring director. Compose — and rehearse — your one-minute self-promotional speech on who you are, an achievement or two and your strengths. It's not vanity to make a good first impression. If a supervisor wants to know why she should hire you, be ready.

Always follow up with thank-you letters and calls. Even today, a letter, as well as the quick-response email, will separate you from a surprising number of the other applicants — to your advantage — and keep your name fresh in the interviewer's mind. Judicious calls display your continued interest. Writing out beforehand what you want to say helps. So does rehearsal.

Be aware that due to the usually huge numbers of applicants, most companies are able to follow up only with candidates in whom they are interested. Don't take it personally if you are not notified that you did not get the job.

Learn about business taxes and incentives, financing a business, importing and exporting, federal government contracting, state business resources and more. The website also provides information on a wide range of programs and services to help veterans, women, minorities and the economically disadvantaged start or grow a business.

Health Care

in Cochise County

THERE ARE MANY HEALTH care services in Cochise County for military, civilians and veterans, though implementation of the Affordable Care Act has changed established insurance options. Visit www.healthcare.gov for information on open enrollment for health care coverage under the national Affordable Care Act.

See the Military Buyer's Guide to connect with local hospitals and medical centers, health care centers and health care providers.

COMMUNITY HEALTH CARE CLINICS AND RESOURCES

A community health center or clinic is customarily the place to go for those who have no health insurance or have limited income or ability to pay medical fees. Such clinics accept most insurance and provide affordable, comprehensive health care by well-trained, professional staff. They also serve those who are uninsured and underinsured, and most are open to making sliding scale payment arrangements based on income and family size.

For a list of community health centers in Arizona, visit the website of the Arizona Alliance for Community Health Centers at www. wacommunityhealth.org and select "Find a Community Health Center Near You" under "About Us."

DENTAL CARE

The Arizona State Board of Dental Examiners website, https://dentalboard.az.gov, can help you find a dentist with its roster lists. Select "Online Services" from the home page and select an option under "Consumer Information" to find or verify a dentist, hygienist or dental assistant. You can also seek referrals from people you know who've had dental care in the area.

The Oral Health Office of the Arizona Department of Health Services can give you tips for oral health and low-cost dental care. Visit its website at https://www.azdhs.gov/prevention/womens-childrens-health/oral-health/index.php.

FINDING A LOCAL DOCTOR

Before you arrive at your new assignment, you can check the Arizona Medical Board's online directory at https://www.azmd.gov/DoctorSearch/DoctorSearch. You can browse for a provider by name or by specialty. This should give you a preview of the local medical practitioners as well as where you might need to go for specialized care.

Personal referrals from friends or other medical personnel can add to your options.

You can check a doctor's certification at the American Board of Medical Specialties at www. abms.org. To see if anyone has registered a complaint or taken disciplinary action against the doctor, visit the Arizona Medical Board at www. azmd.gov or call 480-551-2700.

Treat finding a doctor as seriously as looking for a new job or a new home. You want to be comfortable with the person who will see you while you are most vulnerable.

FOR VETERANS

Veterans in Yuma, Imperial and La Paz counties are served within Veterans Integrated Service Network 22 — the Desert Pacific Healthcare Network. VISN 22 serves more than 1.5 million veterans with eight VA health care systems and 65 community clinics throughout Southern California, Arizona and New Mexico. PICKING UP FROM ONE place and moving to another is always a hassle, especially when kids and pets are involved. Knowing whom to call or where to find information can help make the transition easier.

The Red Cross helps members of the military, veterans and their families prepare for, cope with, and respond to, the challenges of military service.

The American Red Cross offers confidential services to all members of the military, veterans, and their families by connecting them with local, state and national resources through the network of chapters in communities across the United States and offices on military installations worldwide.

Local Red Cross offices develop and maintain relationships with key community partners. Military families rely on the Red Cross to help them identify their needs and connect them to the most appropriate Red Cross and community resources. This key Red Cross service includes responding to emergency needs for food, clothing, and shelter, referrals to counseling services (e.g., financial, legal, mental health), respite care for caregivers, and other resources that meet the unique needs of local military members, veterans and their families.

The American Red Cross Emergency Communications Center is available to help 24/7. Call 877-272-7337 or submit an online request at https://saf.redcross.org/css.

PETS

Moves are stressful for everyone — including the family pet. Pets can sense stress and a change in routine can be difficult for them. If possible, keep your pets in a quiet, secure area while movers pack up or unload your belongings. Movers will have your door open while they move boxes and furniture, and a pet may slip out the door undetected. Make sure you keep a collar with an ID tag on your pet at all times. Ensure the tag has your current phone number on it. It is also a good idea to microchip your pets. Remember to keep the microchip's contact information up-to-date. If your pet escapes during any part of your move, you want the animal shelter that scans the chip to be able to contact you.

In Arizona, your pet could face many new outside dangers, including rattlesnakes, mountain lions, coyotes, javelina, bats, woodpeckers and raptors. Urban sprawl, drought and plentiful sources of food and habitat can make your household more attractive to these kinds of wildlife. Keep dogs, cats, poultry and other domestic animals indoors or in a secure enclosure with a sturdy roof, especially at dusk and nighttime. Always walk pets on a leash.; roaming pets are can become easy prey. Do not feed pets outside, and store their food inside. Download educational brochures to help you handle encounters with wild animals at www. azgfd.com/wildlife/livingwith.

Veterinary services in Cochise County are plentiful; see the Military Buyer's Guide to connect with local providers. Another source for connecting with a veterinarian is the Arizona Veterinary Medical Association website https://azvma.org.

Education & Academics

in Cochise County

FINDING THE RIGHT SCHOOLS and educational opportunities for each family member is an important part of any move. This chapter outlines Montgomery County's public schools system, private schools, charter schools and home schooling criteria, as well as local libraries and higher education institutions. To be enrolled in an Arizona school, a child must be at least 5 years old by Sept. 1 of the school year. Those wishing to register their child in school should bring the following to the school office: a birth certificate or other proof of the child's age, and the child's previous school records and immunization records. For more details on Arizona's minimum vaccine requirements for students in grades K-12, please visit https://azdhs.gov/documents/preparedness/ epidemiology-disease-control/immunization/school-childcare/school-immunizationrequirements.pdf. Check with the school for additional requirements.

In 2010, Arizona, along with the majority of other states, the District of Columbia, Guam, American Samoa, the Northern Mariana Islands, the U.S. Virgin Islands and the Department of Defense Education Activity, adopted Common Core State Standards that provide a consistent set of educational expectations for students regardless of ZIP code. When a family moves, a student's education is often disrupted because the student may be forced to repeat material or learn at a different level at the new school. With common standards across states, this disruption will be reduced — of particular interest to military families. At present, national Common Core State Standards exist only for English language arts and mathematics though Alabama has state standards across the full curriculum. For more information, visit www.corestandards.org.

Choosing a School

Choosing the right school is very important, so be sure to research each one before deciding. Contact the school by phone or by visiting its website, which is a valuable source to learn about a school district's statistics and curriculum. Talk to people in the area, especially friends and colleagues who already live there.

If the school shows promise, schedule a visit and bring a list of written questions about student-teacher ratios, computer availability, extracurricular activities, sports programs, music programs, gifted programs and grading standards.

Discuss the potential school with your child: what they liked and what they didn't like. Your family's ability to readily adapt to a move and to find happiness in your new home may depend, in part, on how happy your children are in their new school.

CHARTER SCHOOLS

Charter schools are public schools of choice that are tuition-free, serve all students and have open enrollment. For more information or a list of charter schools in the state, visit the Arizona State Board for Charter Schools' website at https://online.asbcs.az.gov/schools/search.

HOME SCHOOLING

While Arizona school districts are governed by their own school boards, each Arizona county provides educational services and oversight under the direction of an elected county school superintendent. Visit www.cochise.az.gov/ schools/home-schooling to find information on home-school rules and regulations.
